paying the Imperial import tax is also the subject of much dissatisfaction on the part of foreign countries because of its irregularities and discriminations. In making this tax uniform important reductions are contemplated, which will be gratifying to England, as well as to all the treaty Powers which enjoy favored nation treatment. Everything depends upon the result of the English negotiations, which will soon be pressed in London, and which may require the placing of certain large contracts in England to offset present advantages enjoyed by English-manifested great interest, and piled his guides with questions. When a $50,000 bond was shown him he nudged ex-Secretary Foster and asked him if he had any like that. In the cash room Mr. Morgan presented the Viceroy with a dollar bill of the new issue numbered '74,' corresponding to his age; and this incident brought out the fact that to-day was Secretary Carlisle's birth-day and that he was sixty-one years old, which led Li Hung Chang to remark that he was a young man. Down in the redemption division the Viceroy destroyed $70,000 in old greenlacks with evident delight. Then Secretary Carlisle entered the carriage with him, and the party were driven to the Eurean of Engraving and Printing, where all the operations of money and stamp making were viewed with the greatest curiosity.

When the Viceroy returned to his hotel at noon the rain began to fall heavily, and it was immediately announced that he would cancel all further sightseeing and remain in his apartments until he had to start for his train. Luncheon was promptly served and followed by the inevitable siesta for an hour. A handsome wreath, which had been ordered for the Viceroy to take to Mount Vernon and placed on Washington's tomb, was sent to the Chinese Legation with instructions for the Minister to perform the act of homage as the Emperor's representative. A present of $150 was sent down to be divided among the hotel servants, and the proprietor and manager of the hotel were decorated with silver medals similar la appearance to the old trade dollar, but hardly so well executed.

In addition to those who came to Washington on the train, H. W. Hoo'and M. Y. Chung, of the Legation here, accompanied the party as personal representatives of the Chinese Minister. The train will not be speeded through Pennsylvania to-night, as there is no hurry, and it is desired not to disturb the Viceroy's sleep, which he considers the panacca of all ills and to which he attributes his hale old age.

OBITUARY.

PATRICK CASSIDY.

Patrick Cassidy, a well-known business man and a resident of this city for nearly twenty years, died at 4 o'clock on Friday morning at Larchmont, where he was spending the summer. He had suf-ing in a place in New-Jersey, working in company with John Roach, the ship-builder. After mastering the trade he began business on his own account, and founded the Long Island Steam Boiler Works. He was identified with the building of the Crystal. Palace, which was destroyed by fire some years ago, on the present site of Bryant Park. During the war his connection with the iron business was unusually large, and he was reputed to be wealthy. He lived at College Point during the summer at that time, in the same house in which John Roach died some time afterward, and while there Mr. Cassidy was reported to have died, and "The Brooklyn Eagle" printed an obituary of him. The paper was then edited by Thomas Kinsella, who was his per-sonal friend. In 1877 Mr. Cassidy left his home in Brooklyn, where he owned extensive property, and came to this city. About fourteen years ago he gave up his connection with the Long Island Steam gave up his connection with the Long Island Steam Boile: Works and started in the manufacture of plumbers' materials, as senior partner of the firm of Cassidy & Adler, at No. 523 West Fifty-fifth-st., suc-ceeding Alfred Brady, whose business had been established in 1820, and had formerly been in Prince-st. various parts of New-York, Jersey City and Brooklyn. All of these went to Excelsior Grove, on the Hudson, about eighteen miles from the Battery.

Twenty-five thousand nine hundred and ten mothers and children were enabled by these excursions to set away from their hot, stuffy rooms, and to enjoy a day full of healthful pleasure on the water and at one of the most beautiful spots on the Hudson. All the expenses of the excursions are paid by a resident of New-York, whose only request is that his name shall not be known. Besides furrishing the barge and tug, the gentleman provided a band of music, eight cans of rich, creamy milk and two barrels of ginger "cartwheels" for each excursion.

The amount of pleasure caused by these excursions is incalculable. No one can estimate what it means to a poor mother with five or six little ones to get away from the city for a day, particularly if that is the only one of the year that she gets a chance to see any green trees or to be on the water. Simple pleasure of a healthy sort is an element almost entirely lacking in the lives of the tenement-dwellers of the great cities, and whoever furnishes it in whatever degree can have the satisfaction of an immediate return in hearty gratitude, and is the further comfort that the money thus spent accomplishes the intended effect, and without any risk of undermining the character of the recipierts.

THE WORK OF A WEEK. The Tribune Fresh Air Fund sent to the country during the week ending September 5 seven parties, aggregating 371 children. Besides this, two day argregating 31 children. Besides this, two day excursions, entertaining 2,075 poor mothers and children, were made to Excelsior Grove, on the Hudson. There were also twelve trolley parties, which gave a pleasant ride from Brooklyn to Bergen Beach and back to a host of mothers and children. This summer's fresh air work ends with the departure of four parties this week. Bands of children to New-Windsor and Middletown, N. Y., on Monday, a small party to New-Haven, Conn., on Wednesday, and on Friday, September 11, the guest of the Canadian Government to Vancouver, arrived at the Clifton House this morning, together with a number of other officials. More guests are expected to-morrow and Monday.
